

Stilton Literary Agency

What's the Deal with Climate Change?

Original title: Hva er greia med klima? Grønne Greier
Publisher: Vigmostad & Bjørke 2019
Non-Fiction, Childrens book, age 9-12 yrs /
Nature, Popular Science
Sample in English

What's the big deal about climate?

Writer Ole Mathismoen and illustrator Jenny Jordahl literally do a deep dive into the ongoing climate crisis, and take a closer look at what is about to happen with the climate change, why it is happening, what the consequences will be and what can possibly can be done about it.

The topic is heavy and complicated, but it is conveyed in a smart, humoristic, and easy-to-understand way, by two masters in the field. The co-authors take part in the story as cartoon characters .

They are both award winning authors. Ole Mathismoen is Norway's foremost environmental journalist, with several published books on environmental protection and Jenny Jordahl is an illustrator, cartoonist, blogger and author.

Foreign rights

Errata Naturae, Spain
Erein, Basque, Spain
Indigo Knjga, Croatia
Bogoo, Denmark

Ole Mathismoen

Ole Mathismoen is Norway's foremost environmental and climate journalist, and the author of several books on environmental protection. His titles What's the big deal about climate? (2007) and Green things: about nature and the environment and stuff (2018) were both nominated for the Brage prize. Mathismoen has also been awarded the Bergesen prize.